

Women's Leadership Award

Winner: Annmarie Mabarrack

Annmarie sparked her interest in GIS a decade ago while working in local government. Since then, Annmarie's achievements have been outstanding.

While obtaining numerous qualifications including a Bachelor of Applied GIS at Flinders and Diplomas in Project Management and Leadership, Annmarie made a significant impact at Primary Industries & Resources and also Oz Minerals, with numerous award-winning projects.

Annmarie was pivotal, introducing spatial science into projects and procedures; leading change and mentoring others to become proficient in geospatial applications.

Annmarie has contributed to diversity initiatives through the 'Women in Agribusiness and Regions' and with the 'Women in Geospatial Sciences Professional Network'.

Currently in a leadership role at the City of Marion, Annmarie continues to remain involved in the spatial industry.

Many would testify to Annmarie's ability to build rapport at any level. Her many skills make Annmarie an inspiring role model with great potential to contribute to the future of the industry in a positive way.
